

On-demand Business Telephony Revolution Starts Today with OIGAA launch

VozTelecom launch today at Fall VON in Boston a new disruptive on-demand communication application for businesses, with unlimited extensions per customer as a FREE service.

Boston, MA – VON -- October 30, 2007 - VozTelecom today announce immediate availability of OIGAA (www.oigaa.com), an on-demand Telephony service for business of any size, for FREE over Internet. OIGAA is a Web-based, hosted communication service that has advanced PBX features. There's no need for new hardware, no software to install or special terminals, due it's web-based.

OIGAA provides to any business dramatic savings through unlimited number of extensions without any charge, as competitive unlimited flat rate calling plans. OIGAA is absolutely FREE while communications resides into the Internet, between OIGAA users or between other peering VoIP service providers through XConnect Global Alliance (www.Xconnect.net). Through its PBX features and unified communications applications, customers will get a big business feel and improved efficiency into their communications, without any upfront cost. The service is very easy to run from the web, no installation is needed and any SIP phone can be automatically attached to each extension, using a web-based wizard.

It works essentially as an advanced PBX, having auto attendant, call routing, music on hold and voice mail, providing phone extensions to each user for internal communications and external lines for concurrent calls to any telephony network. Incoming calls from telephony networks goes into local numbers and are routed to required OIGAA destination. Local numbers over 40 countries provided by VOXBONE (www.voxbone.com) international footprint can be mapped to any extension, the auto attendant or conference bridge. Additional to the PBX features, Presence, instant messaging, video call, enterprise directory, file transfer and Skype calls makes OIGAA a complete communication service for any business user.

When the user is out of office, OIGAA into the mobile allows to place calls and to be reached through a fixed landline number without increasing the monthly phone bill. The benefits for business are substantial, because customers prefer calling local landline numbers. Fixed and mobile phone bills are slashed and the company gets a 'big business' feel with unlimited telephony every ware. OIGAA is available for Windows Mobile handsets with internet connection.

Speaking at Fall VON this week, VozTelecom CEO & Co-founder, Xavier Casajoana says about VozTelecom new product launch:
